LEGISLATURE CONTROL IS CLAIMED BY GOVERNOR

C. C. Young Takes Issue With Richardson Over Results of Election, However

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—"In the Assembly the economy forces are sure of forty-five votes and in the Senate twenty-four," Governor Friend W. Richardson said today.

"The progressives will control both houses of the next legislature with not less than twenty-two votes out of forty in the Senate and not less than forty-six out of eighty in the assembly," Lieutenant-Governor C. C. Young, anti-administration leader, announced.

These conflicting claims were made as an aftermath of Tuesday's primary election and served to forecast the bitter battle that will be waged for the control of the next session of the legislature.

With the issue so close, control may not be determined until the votes are counted for the speaker of the House and president pro tem of the Senate when the legislature meets. Between now and

WELLER WINNER BY 3 TO 1 VOTE

Keyes' Total Doubles That of Sheldon; Supervisor Wright Holds Lead

The majority of Frank C. Weller of Glendale, candidate for nomination on the Republican ticket for assemblyman from the Sixth district, continue to grow as the returns from the primary election are tabulated. The latest figures show Mr. Weller is leading his opponent, Edward I. Bryant, 9,348 to 3,111.

District Attorney Asa Keyes' lead also grows as the late returns come in. In 1855 precincts District Attorney Keyes polled 130,672; while Caryl M. Sheldon, candidate for the position, succeeded in getting only 64,720 votes.

Supervisor in Doubt
The race for supervisor of the Fifth district, of which Glendale is a part, remains in doubt and may be undetermined until the official count is made, it is believed. Supervisor Henry W. Wright, incumbent, has a margin of about 3000 votes over his combined opponents, O. B. Manchester and Charles C. Fife.

Possibility of a contested election in the Criswell-Fredricks fight for the Tenth district Republican congressional nomination loomed today as Criswell gradually cut down Fredricks' lead of 1,300 votes. Criswell's managers refuse to concede defeat and said a recount would be demanded if Criswell continued to decrease his opponent's lead.

Walter P. Linberger, Congressman from the Ninth district, who had no opposition on the ballot, polled 45,353 votes in 901 precincts, according to the latest figures. The name of C. H. Randall was written in by a number of voters on the Republican, Democrat, Prohibition and Socialist tickets.

Fear Dynamite Death Plot Against Loeb and Leopold As Trial Ends

Armed Guards Thrown Around Jail to Frustrate Mob; Boys Keenly Enjoy Crowe's Discomfiture

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—John R. Caverly, chief justice of the criminal court, who tried the Franks case, this afternoon announced that because of receipt of threats that the courthouse would be blown up in an effort to kill Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, heavily armed guards will be thrown about the building on September 10, when he pronounces sentence.

Evidently the jurist considered the threats seriously, for he announced that not only would no one be admitted to the courtroom on that date, but that "the public and employees of other courts" will be barred from the building. The cordon of guards, to be armed with rifles as well as revolvers, will surround the entire block on which the courts are located, from the night of September 9 until after the killers are sentenced.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
Staff Correspondent for International News Service Leased Wire
CRIMINAL COURT, CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, young collegians, who slew Bobby Franks "for a thrill," will be informed on September 10 whether they will pay with their lives on the gallows, or with life time in prison, for that weird crime.

Judge John R. Caverly fixed this date today at the conclusion of the famous case, which has occupied nearly six weeks and attracted more attention than any other crime in modern times. On that date "Dicky" and "Babe," their attorneys and their relatives will gather again in the sombre old courtroom to hear their fate. And no one else will be admitted on that date, Judge Caverly warned in making his announcement from the bench.

Rebuke Is Bitter
An otherwise drab conclusion to the famous trial was enlivened by a stinging rebuke which Judge Caverly administered to State's Attorney Crowe, as soon as the hard-bitten prosecutor had spoken his final word in favor of the death penalty.

Crowe had referred to the testimony of Detective-Sergeant James J. Gortland, in "pleaded the officer's word" as saying months ago that he could "pick off" the state's attorney do- ing before a friendly judge and get a life sentence instead of the gallows."

Clarence Darrow charges that this was perjury on the part of the officer, and it was of Darrow's charge that Crowe spoke this morning during his final plea.

Text of Remarks
"I don't know," the state's attorney shouted, "whether this officer is telling the truth or not, or whether Leopold ever said that, but I submit that any one who has observed the acts of this defendant in court, and the actions of his relatives and attorneys, knows that they believe that they have a friendly judge."

Judge Caverly's face reddened a little as the state's attorney do- ing this, but he said nothing. A few moments later, however, when Crowe, red-faced and exhausted, had sat down, his rebuke was instant and sharp.

"The court will order the closing remarks of the state's attorney stricken from the record," Caverly said sternly. "It is a plain attempt to intimidate this court. And this court will not be intimidated."

Crowe tried to interrupt with a protest that he had no such intention, but Caverly waved him down with a peremptory and warning gesture.

"This court is not going to be intimidated in this case by any one."

With Crowe still trying to voice an apology, Caverly calmly went ahead and read a written statement he had prepared, which set the date of September 10th for decision, and contained a spirited answer to those who had criticized the conduct of this case.

Judge Caverly not only characterized the state's remarks about a "friendly judge" as an effort to intimidate him, but he also said they constituted "a cowardly and dastardly assault on the integrity of the court."

Crowe tries to apologize

PRESIDENT'S CAMPAIGN READY

Returns to Washington for Speech Before World's Fraternal Congress

By GEO. E. DURNO
For International News Service.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 28.—President Coolidge will return to Washington tonight, after his thirteen days' vacation in the hills here, with a rough outline of his campaign developed and ready to put in action.

During his stay here, the president has devoted much thought to the part he will play in the Republican campaign. He will arrive at the capital tomorrow with two definite speaking engagements on schedule; three others tentatively planned, and with three campaign speeches definitely shaped in his mind.

May Visit Kansas
In addition to salutes into the east, Mr. Coolidge virtually has decided to venture as far west as either Kansas City, St. Louis or Chicago, before the November elections, it was learned. He is committed to address an audience tomorrow at Washington before the world's fraternal congress, and one at Baltimore September 6 at the unveiling of a statue of Lafayette.

Thirteen days in Plymouth has benefited the president greatly. Mrs. Coolidge also shows the benefit from the vacation.

Gin Sidetracks Pair On Way to Film Ball

"All dressed up and nowhere to go" was the predicament of Silas Downing, a member of the Hollywood movie colony, who inadvertently breezed through Glendale early last night with two points of synthetic gin in his possession and at least another pint of the stimulating fluid in his anatomy.

He was picked up by a motor officer of the Glendale police department, who observed that the gyrations of his car were peculiar. Taken to headquarters, he was pronounced under the influence of intoxicating liquor by Dr. G. Kaemmerling, city health officer. With him was a young woman. They said they were on the way to the big motion picture ball in Los Angeles.

The young woman was allowed to go her way, but Downing was detained overnight in jail. This morning he was brought before Judge Frank H. Lowe of the Glendale police court and fined $100, which he promptly paid, and was released.

LaFollette, Radicalism Don't Appeal to Labor Says Federation Editor

Lawrence Quotes Forthcoming Editorial Showing Objections Voiced Against Wisconsin Senator's Principles

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The American Federation of Labor is not swallowing Senator Robert M. La Follette or radicalism. Although an endorsement has been given the third party nominees as individuals, the "Federationist," the official organ of the American Federation of Labor, will say in its editorial in the September number shortly to be issued, some important things which can not but be construed as fundamental objection to certain principles for which La Follette stands.

The American Federation of Labor frankly disagrees with La Follette on the subject of trusts and monopolies and government ownership and demands that the Sherman anti-trust law be repealed. The "Federationist" expresses a friendship for trusts as a means of conserving labor and thinks the La Follette program of trying to cure monopoly by political regulation is wrong.

Far Apart On Principles
After reading the editorial one cannot help but wonder how the American Federation of Labor could endorse La Follette at all, for on principle they are far apart. Would the Wisconsin senator subscribe to what the "Federationist" says? Anyone who knows the Wisconsin senator can answer the question by studying the forthcoming editorial, which says in part:

"Privately owned monopoly as a political issue is bound to play a part in the present political campaign. It compels attention, directly or indirectly, in the political platforms. The Democratic party demands strict enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law. The La Follette platform calls for the power of government to crush private monopoly, rather than foster it. The Republican platform propounds the good old doctrine of laissez faire, or leave things about as they are."

No Platform Satisfies
"No political platform meets the thought of labor on this great question of monopoly, and labor, in considering platforms, could not and did not make its analysis on that issue alone. There are many issues, but this one is well worth special consideration, the outset in order that labor's future course may be as clear as has been its past record."

The American Federation of Labor has demanded and will continue to demand the repeal of the Sherman anti-trust act. I cannot hold with the Republicans that nothing needs to be done, but I would prefer the status quo to a tinkering process that would result in strengthening the anti-trust act or creating new political machinery with which to burden labor and industry without bringing real benefit to either.

Sets Forth Principles
"Let it be set forth definitely here that labor and industry are indivisible and inseparable. Labor and industry have interests that seem to clash with the interests of other factors in industry, but as a part of the great world of industry, labor, management, science, all share in the responsibility for the productivity and general well-being of industry and they are all bound up in its fate."

LINERS LIMP INTO PORTS WITH MANY INJURED

Several Swept Overboard In Storm; Coastal Steamer Aspey Is Wrecked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—With its center sixty miles southwest of Saint Kitts, a new tropical hurricane is moving west-northwestward, according to a warning issued by the United States weather bureau today. Saint Kitts is in the West Indies.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Nine more trans-Atlantic liners, tossed by winds that blew more than 100 miles an hour and buffeted by high seas that completely submerged the decks eighty feet high, are expected in port today with the same tales of horror and lists of injured aboard as the five badly smashed liners that made port late yesterday.

The storm began Tuesday night, coast ports saying it was the most severe summer gale within fifty years. Huge waves rolled inland, breaking against headlands with a cloud of spray that rose forty feet in the air.

Details of Wrecks
One man was drowned at Yarmouth when the schooner Lizzie E. was driven ashore.

The coastwise steamer Aspey with seventy persons on board was wrecked at Neils harbor. All on board were saved.

A score of home-coming Americans are in New York hospitals today and one hundred more have been treated by doctors or at hospitals as a result of the terrific gales that lashed the Atlantic into a fury on Tuesday night and caused five trans-Atlantic liners to limp into port late yesterday with heavy lists of injured on board.

Many Injured on Liner
The White Star liner, Arabic, battered badly by the hurricane-tossed seas, suffered the most seriously and when she dropped anchor at quarantine with lifeboats and rafts smashed, long sections of rail broken and much gear on deck carried away. Seventy-five passengers were awaiting medical attention.

Eight were rushed to hospitals with serious injuries and many others suffered broken bones and bad lacerations as a result of being tossed about by the mountainous seas that at one time almost caused the great liner to founder.

Steamer Captain Loses Life
The White Star liner Homerio also made port with seven injured aboard. The Munson liner Munargo had one man with a broken knee cap and the Italian liner Giuseppe Verdi had three injured aboard, among them A. L. Mohler, retired railway official.

Captain J. Madson, master of the steamer Norfir was washed overboard during the storm while the vessel was en route to New York from South American ports, according to a radio message received today.

Helen Wills Welcomed Home After Triumphs

BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 28.—Hurrying home to re-enter the University of California after her triumphant tennis invasion of Europe and the east, Miss Helen Wills, national and Olympic titleholder, was scheduled to arrive today. An official welcome planned by the city of Berkeley was banned at the last minute after a conference with Miss Wills' father, Dr. C. A. Wills, who explained that neither he nor his noted daughter believed in hero-worship, and that "Little Facer" preferred a quiet homecoming. Her friends, however, disregarded her hopes for a "quiet" arrival, and were at the depot. Miss Wills is to be presented with an automobile by her admirers.

CALL WITNESSES IN DOUBLE TRIAL

Excess Sale of Stock In Steam Motors Co. Is Charged by State

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—Making good his threat to call to the witness stand 10,000 witnesses to prove that the state corporation law had been violated by F. C. W. E. Barham, who is on trial for alleged sale of more than 100,000 shares of Double Steam Motors company stock, Assistant District Attorney Robert Fitzgerald today marshaled the first of his great army of witnesses before Judge E. H. Woolley.

Fitzgerald lost a legal battle to prove excess stock sale through introduction of the company's books and then proceeded to call individual stockholders. Five purchasers, to date, have testified they bought 72 shares leaving only 99,928 shares to be accounted for.

Night sessions of court will be held.

La Follette's Principles Attacked by Labor

and almost every attempt so to solve it, will lead to more abuse than remedy.

"Consider this vital fact: Government stands as the guarantor of the rights of private property. We shall have the institution of private property as long as our present form of government stands. Democracy rests upon the private ownership of property as much as upon any other basis.

"Production Methods Changed. The basis of monopoly, and of all large ownership, is in the institution of private property. There is no going back of that fact. It stands and all theorists will do well to remember it.

"Starting on that basis, ownership submits to natural forces at work in the field of industry. These natural forces make for constantly enlarging units of production and constantly enlarging organizations for production and distribution. Some of this enlargement is devised to also to enlarge profits. But basically, it is all so far as it is sound and lasting, in accord with changing methods of production and distribution, volume of production and facility of distribution. It is economically sound. It is in response to normal and natural demand for methods that fit the requirements of men and machinery.

"The United States Steel Corporation is called a trust. It is a production machine of tremendous worth to the people of America. It was built to work and it does work. The Supreme court, wiser than platform builders, found a way to allow it to live. It was good strategy, too, for it saved the government the humiliation of an unenforceable decree.

To Ride The Tide
"Henry Ford, in a national advertising campaign, is frankly telling all America of his great combination of production units—a horizontal trust, including forests, mines, mills, smelters, railroads, ship lines and factories. Here is a machine which came into being in response to a natural demand. It is a wonderful economic machine for economical production. Ford knows this and he is doubtless advertising the explanation of its sound merits in order to build up a public understanding that will be too wise to attack it destructively.

"Whatever platform builders may say, it is too late in the economic day to go out with a broom to sweep back the tide. The tide was started when steam power was discovered, hastened when steam was harnessed to machine pulleys, accelerated when Ben Franklin flew his kite into electricity and fame, and furnished the motive power of the modern factory system stood forth in full flower. On this tide we go on to better things, or in it we go down to destruction.

"We cannot turn back the tide, but we can ride it.
Favor Normal Course
"The proper sphere of government in helping toward beneficial results is to find and furnish information, to get at and make known the facts, to encourage and insist upon development within industry of machinery which will take from invested wealth its dictatorial power over policies of production, employment and public relations. There is a normal course which must be pursued, just as there always is where life and its perpetuation are concerned. The government may be helpful, but it cannot take over the task without spoiling the whole effort.

"The American labor movement will resist at all times every effort at governmental coercion, every effort of government blindly to go counter to the natural and evolutionary forces that are at work where life has its being and its sustenance. Labor is concerned with life, while government too often sees only formulas.

"In this issue there is bound up the whole contest between governmentalism and individual and group freedom, between free industry and state socialism. Labor is for freedom, for the normal, rational things—for the utmost of freedom and fullness for life and life forces. Let politicians give heed to these thoughts."

COMMENT That's All

Excellent Business
Hand to Mouth Trade
Seeking Something New
August Vollmer's Record

—By Gil A. Cowan—

From the report of the Consolidated Press Association leased wire service to The Glendale Evening News the writer takes the following paragraph:

From hand to mouth may be all right for a banquet table but when applied to buying it is bitterly opposed by the two thousand delegates to the National Council of Traveling Salesmen's Associations. They declare this policy on the part of retailers is entailing higher costs on consumers. They admit, however, that retailers are as firm in favoring this policy as they are in opposing it. Outside of the factory, the general consensus of opinion among the delegates from widely scattered sections, seemed to forecast excellent business throughout the remainder of the year.

There you have a forecast by men who know what they are speaking and if Southern California doesn't enjoy prosperity it will be the fault of the people, not of conditions.

Also, the traveling men are right on the "hand to mouth" buying, in that it passes on to the consumer the highest costs of handling commodities. But if you would go a step farther and analyze the situation the public is to blame in a large measure.

Pickle, changeable, cantankerous customers you will hear the merchants complain in an aside to business representatives. Of course, they must cater to these whims. All of which means the day is past when a staple grocery or dry goods business can flourish in any sizable city.

The quest for something new is just as active in the grocery game as it is in the newspaper editorial room.

The San Pedro Pilot, which is a daily publication within the metropolitan area, grows sarcastic at times over the "hokum" handed the populace of Los Angeles. It says editorially:

"It's a pretty hard job sometimes for a man to live up to the reputation which his friends make for him. For instance, the Los Angeles Crime commission secured the appointment of August Vollmer, noted criminologist and Berkeley professor, as police chief. He was press agent as the last word in police management and the public hopefully looked for crime to fade away and criminals to vanish. Yet this item was sent out from Los Angeles July 3d by one of the regular news agencies:

"Robberies in Los Angeles increased 182.2 per cent during the fiscal year ending June 30th, it was revealed here today in a report made public by August Vollmer, chief of police. Other crimes, though not so numerous as robberies, also showed a large gain. Burglaries increased 90.2 per cent and grand larceny 66.8 per cent. Murders were more numerous by 12.5 per cent than in the preceding year.

"And this, remember, is the report of Mr. Vollmer himself. Crime is something which no chief of police can control, and probably Vollmer did all that anyone could have done in the time, but, in view of the promises of his friends, the cold, hard figures of his report certainly make an interesting showing."

CANDIDATES' AGE FACTOR IN RACE

La Follette's Years Offer Argument In Favor of His Opponents

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent, The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—John W. Davis, aged 51.

President Coolidge, aged 52. Senator La Follette, aged 69. These statistics will figure in the national campaign as an argument all by themselves. Do the people want a man in the White House who is physically able to cope with the almost super-human tasks of the presidency or do they wish to take a chance on a man already in failing health?

As the campaign strategy is unfolded, it becomes apparent, that the definitions of radicalism, progressivism, conservatism and all that they connote will provide sufficient controversy for those who take the trouble to analyze issues minutely, but with a vast number of voters the personality and individual ability of a candidate is a controlling factor. To them the question of the candidate's age will be propounded.

Age Is Handicap
Senator La Follette was born on June 14, 1855, and if he were inaugurated president next March he would be within three months of seventy years. At the expiration of his first term he would be nearly seventy-four years of age. No man has ever been elected to the presidency at such an advanced age. William H. Harrison was sixty-eight when inaugurated and served one month. Zachary Taylor was sixty-four and died after a year in office.

The vigor with which President Roosevelt conducted his job was due, in no small part, to his youth. He was forty-two years old when he took the oath of office as president. Woodrow Wilson was fifty-six years old and broke when he was sixty-three. President Harding was fifty-six when inaugurated and did not live out his term.

When Mr. Harding died there was considerable discussion as to the size of the presidential job and how it weighed down a man of advanced years. Few business corporations would chance a general manager at the age of fifty-eight or sixty and none would pick a man of sixty-eight. Yet the presidency of the United States which is the largest single business institution in the world, is being sought today by one man who is nearly seventy years old. Were he in vigorous health, the situation might be different, but he has spent a large part of the past year under the care of a physician.

Coolidge and Davis
Both President Coolidge and John W. Davis are younger than most of the men who have been elected to the presidency. President Coolidge is the same age as Abraham Lincoln when inaugurated, namely fifty-two. Mr. Davis is somewhat younger, the same age as William Howard Taft when assuming office.

Grover Cleveland was forty-seven when inaugurated the first time. Grant was only forty-six. Garfield was forty-nine. Most presidents have been in the fifties.

All the vice-presidential candidates this year are young men. They usually are. But Senator La Follette has the distinction of running for office at an age almost unprecedented in American history. It will not be an asset but a liability to him in the coming campaign. The political folk are sensitive about a man's age. The junior senator from Indiana, Senator Ralston, Democrat, was popular in the middle west and considered seriously for the Democratic nomination but his party colleagues were afraid that his age—sixty-six—would be a handicap and that opponents would constantly refer to it in their efforts to persuade the voters to select a younger man.

Third Party Burden
There is no general understanding in government circles as to the age of retirement from public office but federal judges are rarely appointed nowadays if they are beyond seventy unless, of course, they are in excellent health. Seventy is considered an upper limit.

The question of age is going to be heard from a good deal in the forthcoming campaign—and not to the detriment of the two candidates of the major parties but as a means of convincing voters of the futility of voting the third ticket.

True economy is measured in terms of maintenance rather than first cost.

Packards are built to give satisfactory service for 5, 7, 10 years. When ordinary cars are almost beyond repair the Packard Six hasn't even begun to need repairs.

That's why they cost so little to own and why they have such a high resale value.

NEWS OF FATHER'S DEATH RECEIVED

Dr. Colin Cable Learns of Parent's Sudden End In Kansas City

Dr. and Mrs. Colin Cable of 505 South Columbus were saddened yesterday to receive a telegram telling of the sudden death of Dr. Cable's father, Judge Rufus E. Cable, yesterday, Wednesday, August 27, 1924, in Kansas City, Mo. His death followed a sudden attack of heart trouble and came as a great shock to Dr. and Mrs. Cable, who were completing plans for taking a vacation trip to Kansas City to visit him.

Judge Cable, who was 90 years old at the time of his death, had the distinction of being one of the founders of Colorado City, Colorado, in 1859, near the site of Colorado Springs, and also the honor of having named "The Garden of the Gods."

It was M. S. Beach, the other founder of Colorado City, who a number of years ago revealed the authentic information that Judge Cable was the true author of the title "The Garden of the Gods." Mr. Beach's story was published in the Colorado Springs Gazette, a copy of which is prized by Dr. and Mrs. Cable.

Judge Cable was born in Virginia. He was one of the early pioneers in Colorado, where he was known for his skillful engineering work. For fifty years he lived in Kansas City, Mo., where he was widely known as a judge.

Arrangements for the picnic were in the hands of a committee headed by Ralph E. Pierce, I. B. Carlock was in charge of the sport program and W. C. Waring was in charge of tennis games.

For the picnic supper the club furnished coffee, ice cream and lemonade, while the cream for coffee was donated by Roger W. Jessup, dairyman, who is a member of the club.

List of Winners
 Winners in the various contests were:
 Tug of War—Prize of box of candy, donated by Dr. George Campbell, 410 Lawson building; won by the team captained by W. H. Daniel; the other team was captained by Roger W. Jessup.

Ingledue Declares Big Business Due In Realty Market

September should be a record-breaking month in local business circles, declared C. W. Ingledue, president of the Ingledue Realty company, with offices at 109 South Glendale avenue. Buying of real estate and property will be heavier, he believes, with local buyers as well as newcomers acquiring property.

Mr. Ingledue bases his prediction on the realty business during the last few weeks. The firm has closed seven sales in the preceding twelve days. Mr. Ingledue said, and the majority of buyers were Glendaleans, who realized that there is no period of depression in this city.

More people are coming to Glendale every week, Mr. Ingledue said and are looking over Glendale property.

Judge Sets Trial In Wife Desertion Case
 W. B. Woods of 207 1/2 West Hawthorne street, will stand trial at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, August 30, in the justice court of Judge Harry W. Chase, on a charge of wife desertion. It is reported from the judge's office.

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS WIN LATEST LEGAL TILT WITH COUNTY, SHOW AS USUAL

Case Against J. A. Menard Dismissed After Defense Attorneys Show Impossibility Of Conviction On License Law

Murphy's Comedians (now Mahurin's Players) won another round yesterday afternoon in their legal boxing bout with the Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors, when the case against J. A. Menard, manager of this popular troupe, was dismissed by Judge Kenneth C. Newell at the request of Edgar T. Fee, deputy district attorney, on his admission that it would be impossible to obtain a conviction under California statutes.

The trial was held before the Justice court of Burbank township, in special session at the Glendale City Hall. Judge Harry W. Chase ordinarily presides over this court, but, inasmuch as he had previously expressed an opinion in the matter, he asked Judge Newell, who is the Pasadena justice of the peace, to preside in his stead. It was a friendly suit to test the power of the supervisors in revoking the company's license.

The successful defense of Mr. Menard was conducted by John Everson and J. M. Blankenship, attorneys for Murphy's Comedians. The only witness examined was the complainant, R. C. Addison, county license inspector, who testified that on May 20, Mr. Menard took out licenses to conduct a tent theatre at Central avenue and Stocker street, Casa Verdugo, for the months of May, June, July, August and September, at a fee of $15 a month, which he said was all paid in advance.

When Prosecutor Fee requested the witness to state whether or not the players' license for August was operative on the night of August 16, or had been revoked, Attorney Everson objected on the grounds that the witness was incompetent to answer this question, and that the record itself or a certified copy would have to be obtained to determine the point. The court upheld the defense in this.

Law Doesn't Cover Case
 The prosecution then asked that the trial be postponed until this evidence could be procured. The defense countered with the statement that even should this evidence be introduced, it would show it to be irrelevant, and asked that to save time the trial be continued on the supposition that the evidence in question had been introduced. This the court granted the defense.

Attorney Everson then read from California Decisions, No. 77, the case of McNulty vs. the State, where the Supreme court reversed the decision of a lower court and ruled that operating under a license which has been revoked is not tantamount to operating without first having obtained a license. He then called the attention of the prosecution to the complaint, which specifically charged Mr. Menard with operating a theatre without first having obtained a license.

The defense also called the attention of the prosecution to the fact that the California statutes prescribe a punishment for operating without first having obtained a license, but prescribe no punishment for operating under a revoked license.

Prosecutor Fee, his case destroyed by the legal evidence introduced by the defense, admitted he had no remaining grounds for a successful suit and requested Judge Newell to dismiss the case, stating that, should the case continue and the jury return a verdict of guilty, he would ask that the verdict be set aside.

Doherty, president of the 91st Division association, are laying extensive plans for the entertainment of 15,000 "Powder River" boys during their fifth annual reunion, to be held in Los Angeles, California, Saturday and Sunday, September 27 and 28.

Once each year the veterans of this famous Wild West division come together for a reunion to fight again the battles of the Argentine and renew acquaintances made during their service days.

This year's reunion brings together the veterans of the entire division, some coming from Alaska, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Hawaiian Islands and California.

Glendale Unit, County Firefighters, Meet

The Glendale unit of the Angeles Forest Protective association met last night at the city hall, Lee Lang, first assistant chief, presiding in the absence of P. J. Hayselden, chief, who is away on his vacation.

Ways and means of combatting possible fires in the hills were discussed and reports rendered by various committees on the progress made since the unit was organized. Mr. Lang stated that with the $5000 recently appropriated by the county, all real peril has been removed. It was announced that another meeting will be held at the city hall next Wednesday night, September 3, at 7:30 o'clock.

McGroarty Will Speak At Burbank Meeting

LEADER HERE TO PLAN Y CAMPAIGN

Drive for $275,000 Fund to Be Under Direction of E. L. Mogge

"The next big thing for Glendale must be the Y. M. C. A." This is the slogan announced by Ernest L. Mogge, international Y. M. C. A. secretary, who is in Glendale on the invitation of the local Y. M. C. A. committee to serve as campaign director for the new building movement to raise $275,000 September 16 to 25.

Since Ernest Mogge has been investigating the needs and opportunities for a thoroughly modern building and equipment of the Y. M. C. A. in Glendale, and has outlined plans of procedure which have been heartily approved by the local committee, consisting of David Black, W. F. Tower, H. L. Finlay, C. W. Ingledue, Dr. John Anderson, C. D. Lusby, J. S. Thompson, H. Park Arnold and Secretary Rex C. Kelley.

Campaign office headquarters have been opened in Rooms 11 and 12 of the Fuller building, connecting with the present Y. M. C. A. offices.

Has Fine Record
 George D. McGill, of the realty firm of Horn & McGill, and a former national executive of the Y. M. C. A., states that Mogge is regarded as one of the foremost campaign leaders in the country today. Mogge was state director for California in the United War Work campaign, when the quota of $4,688,750 was oversubscribed with a total of $5,246,533.

The local committee desires that it be understood that Mogge receives no personal financial remuneration for his services to Glendale other than his salary with the international committee, and that a modest contribution made to the Y. M. C. A. international committee, in view of the extended time and services Mogge gives Glendale, on a cost basis, is the only obligation assumed by the local committee.

In an interview this morning Mogge stated that Glendale is the largest city in California without a Y. M. C. A. building, and that he believes that civic pride, as well as recognition that the boys and young men in rapidly-growing Glendale, deserve the advantages and benefits of a modern Y. M. C. A. plant and program, should stimulate the constructive forces of the city, including the Chamber of Commerce, churches, luncheon clubs, reality board and the advancement associations to get together in a big, united effort to put Glendale on the Y. M. C. A. map.

GO ON FISHING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter of 107 East Lomita avenue; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Payne and two sons, of 463 West Salem street, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wimmer, of 122 West Chestnut street, will leave Glendale today for a fishing trip at Big Bear lake. Mr. Hunter, who is proprietor of the Glendale Paint & Paper company, will build a cabin at the lake. The party will return Tuesday.

Melted paraffin spread on the water is sometimes used by moving pictures that call for floating ice.

COUNCIL ADOPTS PLAN FOR SEWERS

Engineers' Specifications Are Approved at Meet of City Officials

The Glendale City Council this morning adopted resolutions approving the specifications prepared by Burns & McDonnell, sewer engineers, for the construction of the main trunk line of the Glendale sewer system, connecting with the Los Angeles outfall sewer.

The specifications were divided into three sections, each covered by a separate resolution. These specifications had previously been approved by the Los Angeles board of public works, according to Ray L. Morrow, Glendale city attorney.

As soon as funds from the sale of the first issue of $652,000 worth of the $1,600,000 sewer bonds are available, bids will be called for on this work and the contracts let. The three sections covered in the resolutions adopted this morning extend from Utah street, Los Angeles, on the south, to Aviation Drive, Glendale, on the north.

Ask Lighting Bids
 The council approved the issuance of a notice calling for bids on Union Metal light standards and equipment for Central avenue. The bids will be opened and read at the session Thursday, September 11. An ordinance was passed amending the salary ordinance, by providing for a superintendent of playgrounds at $270 per month; a superintendent of parks at $200 per month; a municipal orchestra director at $100 a month; and other additions to the city payroll.

An application from E. Holland to conduct an auto campground at 526 South San Fernando Road was referred to the committee of the whole.

Resolutions were adopted authorizing the issuance of bonds for the improvement of Alpha Road, ordering the improvement of Canada boulevard and adopting a diagram of Monterey Road and Adams street. The council ordered that the necessary proceedings for the improvement of Raymond avenue and Lake street be drawn up. A ninety-day permit was granted F. R. Mosher, a street contractor, to keep more than four horses at 118 South Kenwood street.

Ice Price Here Is Not Changed by L. A. War

Glendale housewives will not get the benefit of a drop in the price of ice which has been put into effect in Los Angeles, according to local ice companies. The retail price in Glendale will remain at 60 cents the hundred pounds, whereas the price in Los Angeles today is 35 to 40 cents the hundred pounds. A drop of 10 cents the hundred pounds was made in Los Angeles yesterday, but ice companies involved claim it is due to a price war between rival concerns.

Realtors Hurl Shoes In Elimination Test

The first elimination test in the selection of a team of horse-shoe pitchers from the ranks of the Glendale Realty Board was held yesterday at the lot alongside the site of the Hotel Glendale, when six members of the board hurled the slippers in an effort to make the team that will represent Glendale at the Pasadena convention of state realtors in October.

J. B. Galvin, chairman of the sports committee, was in charge of affairs, but due, perhaps, to his preoccupation and a sense of his heavy responsibilities in lining up the sports program, he fell by the wayside at an early stage. He was followed by Ralph Race, and then J. W. Pearson failed to locate the pin and was counted out, with N. L. Duncan joining the ranks of the beaten ones shortly afterwards, leaving W. A. Horn and E. G. Warren as high men. These two will have to meet other candidates before the team is finally chosen.

The tennis elimination tests will be held on the High school courts as soon as the schedule can be prepared, and the golf tournament will open next week to select the team to represent Glendale.

Daily Greeting To News Readers

I PRAY THAT—
Your desires may always somewhat exceed your satisfactions.
Your work may never quite measure up to your own ideal.
Your house may never be too large to be a home.
Your success may never come too easily.
Your children may never curse you with ingratitude.
Your opinions may never be so fixed you cannot change them.
Your friend may never supplant your own conscience.

CHILD LABOR AND CRIME

No less a personage than Dr. Frank Crane says if more American boys were brought up like the late young Calvin Coolidge, we should have fewer precocious criminals of the Franks case kind; and, if the Child Labor amendment is going to stop boys and girls from learning what work and serious responsibility mean, that amendment had better go into the scrap basket.

In the first place the Child Labor amendment merely gives power to Congress to legislate in regard to the exploitation of childhood. The Supreme court has ruled that Congress has not now that right. Whether laws that may be enacted along this line in the future are wise will depend upon the personnel of the Congress. It is absolutely essential to have national child labor laws, for certain states are willfully careless in neglecting to protect their children, and states that now prohibit the exploitation of childhood cannot compete in manufacturing with states that employ little children for long hours at low wages.

In the second place, it is not probable that any child labor law, if it is framed with any degree of good sense, will affect boys brought up like young Calvin Coolidge or those involved in the Franks case. Young Coolidge had sensible parents who taught him the necessity and the dignity of labor. Parents will always be able to do that in spite of child labor laws. Nor do child labor laws or the lack of them affect millionaires' sons like Loeb and Leopold.

The exploitation of childhood for gain is a crime in itself, for which the whole nation should be held to answer. Children who work in the fields and the factories from ten to sixteen hours a day are not planning crime, it is true. But, neither are they preparing themselves for happy and useful lives.

RADIO PROBLEMS

Every new invention brings its own problems with it and the radio is no exception. Musicians are seeing in the general use of the radio a resultant bad effect upon music and musicians. They argue that radio fans expect to listen in every evening on something good in the way of music without paying for it. When they hear musical programs in this way there is no incentive to attend concerts or operas and pay high prices for seats. It is claimed that artists who appear on radio programs are "committing economic suicide" even though they are paid for their services, for they are cheapening their profession.

John McCormick is quoted as saying that the radio is "affecting music in this country disastrously," and he warns musicians not to risk inclement conditions in singing for the radio. He declares he will never use his voice in this way.

Other musicians feel that the radio has done much to make good music more popular, that it has increased the sales of sheet music and augmented the attendance at concerts.

It is a problem that only time can work out. The radio is a great invention, here to stay and not a fad of the moment. No machine was ever invented but it was contended it would throw people out of work. The fallacy of this argument was long ago established in the mechanical world. The musicians would better jump into the band wagon, or into the radio casting station. They will have to do so in the end.

A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME

Senator La Follette in his campaign for the presidency is making a fight against bossism, and yet he is one of the most shrewd bosses the country has ever known. He dictated the terms of his own nomination and the planks in his platform, accomplishments which the Democratic and Republican candidates found impossible. His fight is against capitalism, and yet among his backers are farmers who own their own land and labor unions who are running banks in true capitalistic style.

La Follette is an astute politician. He has not spent a lifetime in politics without learning its lessons. He is against the machine, and yet he would not alienate machine backing entirely by organizing a third party. He prefers to run as an independent, thus making it possible to call to his standard many who would not support a radical movement under its true name.

Having won political prominence in the Republican party, while a Socialist in principle and while voting the Socialist ticket, our Bob is too clever a politician to break away entirely from the old party and sail forth under the name of Socialist or any other designation that would tend to limit his supporters to one party, class or group of people. As an independent he can count on Republican and Democratic votes that he would not get under another name.

ENDOWED FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

Having instilled in the mind of his son, ideals of public service and taught him that money-making and politics should be widely separated, the late Henry P. Davison, at one time head of the American Red Cross, created in his will, a six and a half million dollar endowment fund whereby this son might devote his life to public welfare in the field of politics unhindered by the necessity of making money. A younger son succeeds the father in the financial world.

The young man, F. Trubee Davison, twenty-six years old, is said to be imbued with his father's high ideals and had made the decision to give up finance for politics before his father's death and before he knew that he was to be endowed. He has already served three terms as assemblyman from his district on Long Island and is said to have won the respect of big men in the Republican organization.

The elder Davison loved his country. His watchword was "The public good." In thus endowing his son for a life of public service he has set a patriotic precedent for other men of wealth to follow.

Dogs

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I was sitting the other day at an outdoor restaurant and noticed a man near me who was showing his little dog to some children. Presently the dog darted out into the street, where it was straightway run over by an automobile and killed. The man was in great distress. He picked up the remains of the animal, wrapped it in paper and carried it away. What had become of the dog? Its life had been suddenly extinguished. Is there a dog Heaven, or other-world of any kind?

John Wesley used to think that the animals had a future life and it is certain that some savage tribes were convinced that their favorite dog would follow them to the Happy Hunting Grounds; but, however we may settle this theological question, the fact remains that the dog, of all the animals upon earth, comes nearest to man.

That is to say, the dog, as Maeterlinck says, is the only animal that really loves a man. It is the only point of animal creation that seems to regard the human being affectionately.

There is a faithfulness, a loyalty and love on the part of the dog that we do not find in any other animal. With this is combined an animality that is just as open and frank. Dogs will fight each other and they do not like cats, but the dog is the friend and companion of man.

However much we may reason out the harm that is done by dogs, the diseases they give us and the danger of being bitten by them, all this logic is swept away when our canine looks up at us with his large and expressive eyes and we behold his tail wagging in good fellowship.

As far as that is concerned, the dog is the only animal that wags his tail as an expression of joy. The horse may wag his tail to keep off the flies, and the members of the cat family wag their tails when they are hungry or contemplate attack, but with a dog, tail-wagging is an expression of geniality of spirit.

The dog's affection for man is pure and undefiled. It makes no difference to him whether his man friend be a millionaire or pauper. He cares nothing for what we possess, so that we possess enough to give him food once in a while. The man is to him what their gods are to the heathen. He looks up to the man as a superior being and is happy only in his presence.

There are some who regard the dog as a coward, who loves man only because he cringes before him, but those who are familiar with dogs feel that this is not true, but rather that their affection is sincere and their courage undoubted. Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Stock markets may be subject to sudden fluctuation and again the seers warn Americans to conserve their wealth and not to risk it.

This is not a favorable rule under which to begin long journeys, especially those that cross waters.

Today's Poem

ALLAN WATER
On the banks of Allan Water,
When the sweet spring-time did fall,
Was the miller's lovely daughter,
Fairest of them all.

For his bride a soldier sought her,
And a winning tongue had he,
On the banks of Allan Water,
None so gay as she.

On the banks of Allan Water,
When brown autumn spread his store,
There I saw the miller's daughter,
But she smiled no more.

For the summer grief had brought her,
And the soldier false was he,
On the banks of Allan Water,
None so sad as she.

On the banks of Allan Water,
When the winter snow fell fast,
Still was seen the miller's daughter,
Chilling blew the blast.

But the miller's lovely daughter,
Both from cold and care was free;
On the banks of Allan Water,
There a corpse lay she.

The Ravings Of a Grouch

To put it very mildly, I always feel like administering a rebuke to the man or woman who is employed to serve the public in any capacity and who is discourteous, overbearing or bored with the job. So often the public servant gets the idea that he is superior to those he is expected to serve; he gets the relationship reversed.

There are street car conductors and other public service employees who are by nature ladies and gentlemen, they are courteous and helpful, they realize that they are hired to serve the public, and they do so to the best of their ability. Though they come in contact with the most unreasonable and irascible of patrons, they keep their heads and their tempers through the most trying situations.

But in some cases these public servants are small in every way. And when people of all classes come to them asking advice, information and aid, they get a feeling of power and lose their heads. They get the idea that they are masters and the public are the servants. They are scornful, sarcastic, indifferent, bored. I have known a street car conductor to deliberately allow an old woman to get off the car at the wrong place, and so cause her great inconvenience, when a word might have saved her all this. But he is not hired to be helpful to old women. His work is to collect tickets and "bawl out" patrons of the road who are so ignorant as not to be familiar with all the streets of the city. I have actually seen timid women who were paying their money to a corporation for service cringe and quail before the insults of an employee who had been paid to serve them.

There are clerks in stores and offices who feel superior to the public, too. They will serve you if you wait their pleasure, but you must be made to feel that they are conferring a favor upon you when they do so. A gateman in a certain railway station yells at the crowd in the tone and accents of a cattle herder, and I always look to see if he is brandishing a whip. But I must confess that the people he has to deal with sometimes act more like beasts than humans.

There is nothing angelic about Mr. and Mrs. Public. They are very trying at times. Every bit of tact and courtesy and diplomacy is sometimes needed to avert trouble with them. But they are important personages, and the one who is paid to serve them should remember the relationship.

A certain big corporation which caters to the motoring public made no mistake when it made the rule that courtesy was to be the first requisite and requirement of their employees.

NASH PRODUCTION SHOWS INCREASE

Company Enters Ninth Year Of Business; Volume of Trade Is Larger

Production in the Nash factories has reached such a high standard during the eight years Nash cars have been manufactured, that the output today is almost half again as large as the entire volume of the industry in 1907, according to a letter received by the Daniel Motor Co., of 1234 South Brand boulevard, local distributors of Nash cars, from C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors company of Kenosha, Wis.

In reviewing the record of the company, President C. W. Nash pointed with pride to the fact that although the start was made August 16, 1916, scarcely six months prior to our entrance into the world war, nevertheless the company's advancement during the elapsed eight years has been one of the most brilliant in American industrial annals.

"Our output the first fifteen months," said Mr. Nash, "was 12,179 cars and trucks as contrasted with a production the eighth year of close to 57,000. Value of the volume in dollars and cents for this last year was four times as great as that of the initial fifteen months period."

"Our first year we had on our books 3125 men while today there are nearly 7200 men employed. In 1916 one plant was occupied with an area of approximately 103 acres and with 1,353,000 square feet of floor space under roof. Today three great plants are necessary. These include the Advanced Six plant at Kenosha, the Special Six plant at Milwaukee, and the Seaman company plant at Milwaukee, one-half interest in which is owned by the Nash Motors company, and which is exclusively devoted to the fabrication of Nash enclosed bodies.

WANTED

MANAGER or PARTNER to open retail store in Glendale; good salary. Investment of $2500 required, fully secured.

Address Box 979, Glendale News.

Local Yachtsmen are exerting everything in their power to be hosts at the 1925 regatta to be held next summer. It is generally believed that Southern yachtsmen have a weakness for Santa Barbara in that it is near the yacht anchorage and because the channel islands furnish good cruising ground. Commodore Butcher and Skipper Gourley of the local club will represent Santa Barbara at the meeting to be held next week, at which time the place of the next regatta will be decided.

WALNUTS HARVESTED
SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 28.—The picking of walnuts will start about September 10, unless a few days of unusual hot weather sticks the nuts to the trees. The Goleta Walnut House, which handles the crop of the Goleta Walnut association, will open September 22, according to P. C. Marble, manager of the house. "The nuts have started to drop early," Mr. Marble said, "and I have promised the California Walnut Growers' association a shipment of nuts September 26."

DOES WOMAN ALWAYS PAY?
SAN PEDRO, Aug. 28.—The chapter has not yet been closed on the story of the adventures of Madeline, the girl stowaway, who spent a month aboard the U. S. S. Arizona on the cruise of the battle fleet to the Panama canal. Now comes the eternal question, "Who pays?"

Canal zone authorities paid Madeline's fare to New York, but sent the bill to Captain P. N. Olmstead, commander of the Arizona. Captain Olmstead believes the navy department should stand the cost. This final difficulty arose because of the necessity of rushing Madeline ashore before she could be thoroughly questioned.

OIL STOCKS CONTINUE TO GROW

Consumption Falls Below Output In Spite of Reduced Prices

By J. C. ROYLE
Special correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—"Conductor, stop the ship. I want to get off and walk." That time-worn joke still represents the oil situation in the United States. For the oil industry cannot walk while oil is running at its present rate and efforts at curtailment in one section are nullified in most part by increased activities in others.
The present rate of production is around two million barrels a day, the highest level of the year. Consumption is higher than ever before but not so high as output. Stocks of oil and gasoline in storage, therefore, continue to pile up undeterred by recent cuts in prices of crude and occasional reductions in the quotations of gasoline.
More automobiles are running on the streets and roads of the United States than ever before. More vessels are being changed from coal to oil burners, but there is little indication that consumption

Autos Must Sound Three Honk Signal On Entering Town

The rule for motorists entering the town of Salona, Okla., between the hours of 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. is that they must honk their horns three times before they roll across the town's boundaries. No honks are required during the night.

Those who have talked with the town's official family declare that the reason for the honking law is to give due notice of the approach of cars to the restaurants, filling stations and other commercial enterprises that are on the lookout for the motorist's dollar.

"If we don't take the motorist's money away from him," one official is reported to have said, "the next town down the road will get it, and we aren't working to build up the prosperity of any rival town."

Water Bag Helps to Keep Butter Solid

Do you have trouble in keeping butter solid on your camping trip? Here is a new wrinkle that will help you overcome such difficulties. Take a canvas water bag (the sanitary type that opens across the top) fill it half full of water, put the butter in a fruit jar and place it in the bag. The evaporation of the water will keep the butter as solid as if it had been kept in a refrigerator.

M'DANIEL IS NEW NASH DEALER

Former Oklahoma Dealer Is Named Distributor In Glendale District

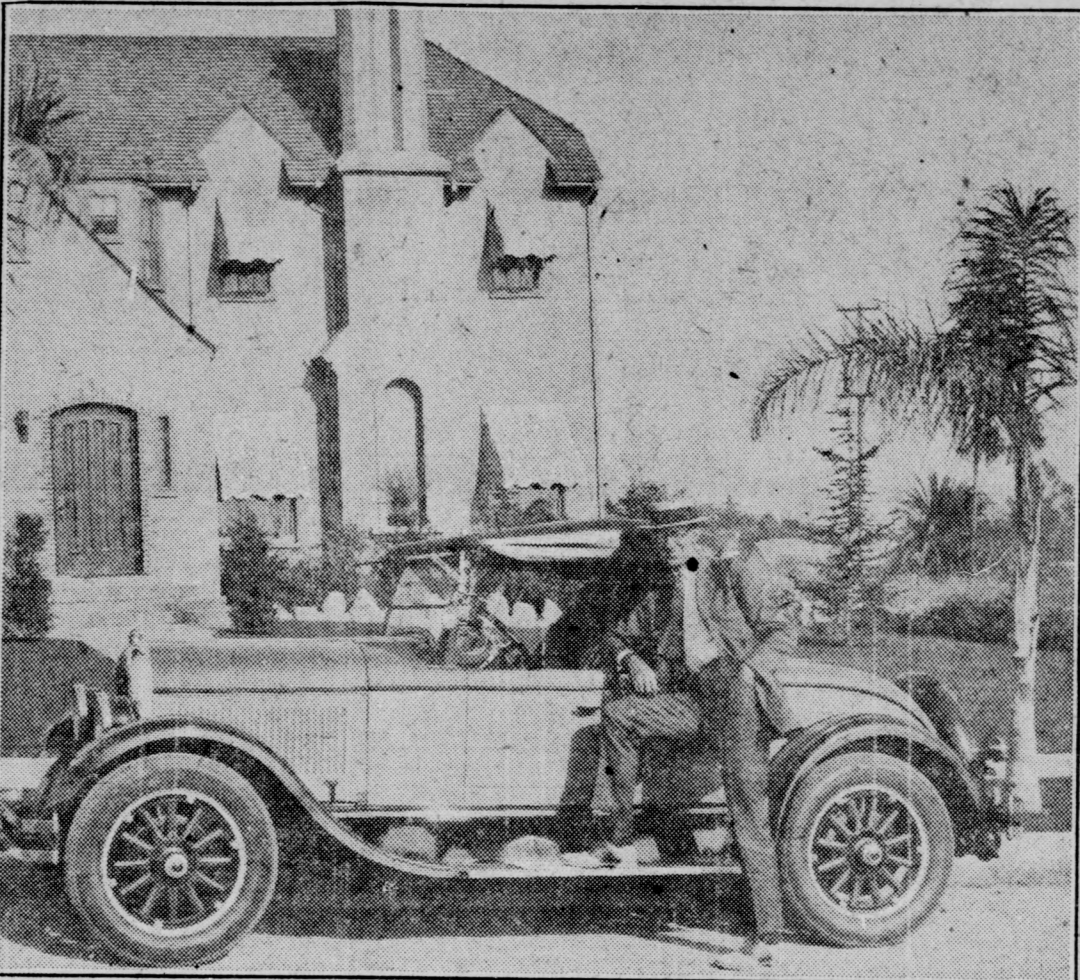

The agency for the Nash and Lafayette cars in Glendale has been taken over by Charles McDaniel, who will conduct the business under the name of the McDaniel Motor company, at 1234 South Brand boulevard, succeeding the Nash Sales company, according to an announcement authorized by Mr. McDaniel today. Before coming to California Mr. McDaniel acted as distributor for the Nash in Oklahoma for several years, and his knowledge of the car and its possibilities in the Southern California market caused him to seek the first opportunity to renew his connection with the Nash organization immediately after coming to this state several months ago.

As soon as he had definitely decided to make his home in Glendale he opened negotiations to secure the position of distributor in this territory, taking over the agency that has been conducted by Adolph Nydegger and Donald Barbee under the style of Nash Sales company.

Mr. McDaniel is now showing a complete line of the latest Nash models.

Proud Of New Roadster

D. RIPLEY JACKSON, Glendale's postmaster, sings the praises of his new CHRYSLER car, that fills the ideal that every motorist has in mind when he purchases a new automobile. The comfort that the late model roadster affords, he claims, makes motoring one of life's greatest pleasures.

"When you get a car that you can take off the showroom floor and step it up to 30 to 35 miles an hour for the first 100 miles and then run it as fast as the law allows—after that you begin to realize that you have reached the goal that every motorist longs for," is the opinion of Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, after taking over his new Chrysler Six roadster from the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street, Chrysler and Maxwell distributors.

"It is customary to break a new car in at a rate not to exceed 20 to 25 miles an hour for the first 500 miles, but the Chrysler is different, and when you say 'different' you cover the entire field."

Postmaster Jackson tested the Chrysler out on a run to Coronado, on which he had four persons in the car, two in front and two in the rumble seat behind, besides luggage, and he declares that the car, with its balloon tires, snubbers and spring seats, proved itself a marvel of comfort and road performance all the way, making so light of the grades that he never realized he was climbing a hill. The gasoline consumption averaged better than 22 miles to the gallon and no additional oil or water was put into the car during the entire trip, nor was any diminution seen after the run to Coronado and back.

"I have driven several makes of cars and never yet have I found so much comfort and freedom from trouble as I have in the Chrysler Six."

First-Aid Kit Comes In Useful on Trip

No camp outfit is complete without a first aid kit or medicine chest—one that is complete in itself and can be carried where it is available for instant use. A small, compact outfit, known as the Sierra First Aid Case, contains practically everything needed for first aid treatment.

Antiseptics, bandages, sunburn and snake bite remedies are included in the pack so that any type of injury may be given first aid treatment. A book on the care of the injured is also enclosed with the kit.

Carry Extra Spark Plugs, Is Suggestion

Extra spark plugs are a good investment and a pair should be carried in the tool box at all times. The expense is small, but they will be worth a dozen times their price when needed out on the road far from a garage. Care should be taken when they are placed in the tool box that they are packed securely so that the porcelain will not be broken.

Caution Urged In Backing Out From Parking at Curbs

Motorists who dash out suddenly from a parking space without looking or signaling are among the worst menaces to ordinary traffic, in the opinion of engineers who have studied this situation from a national angle.

The danger of accidents is increased where oblique parking is the rule. As various styles of parking prevail throughout this section, the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California urges that every precaution be taken, as is indicated in the state law. This declares that the motorist not only must signal adequately, but be certain that other vehicles are not near enough to precipitate a crash.

THIEF TELLS OF CAR'S ABILITIES

'Auto Tester' Writes Owners Of Machines Telling How They Behave

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28.—An outlaw "auto tester," who steals racing cars, tests their speed possibilities and later returns them with a note defining their limitations, is sought by Sacramento police as the result of several reports of this unique type of banditry.

The letter-writing bandit prides himself on the care which he gives the "borrowed" cars and rarely keeps a machine for more than a night. He steals only high-powered cars.

Reporting to a lumber company here on a car which he stole from one of the firm's employees, the outlaw racer observed that "There was no damage done to the machine, although I held her open for a few miles. She does sixty-five when wide open." The lumber company's machine was found at the same spot where it had been stolen.

In a note to another victim whose machine was stolen shortly before that of the lumber company, the jovial auto tester remarked that "Your boat will make about seventy-five miles an hour."

GOOD ROADS SOURCE OF WEALTH

Tourists Seek Good Roads On Journeys; Spending Immense Amounts

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The United States with nearly 15,000,000 automobiles in operation, has become a nation on wheels and there has been a marked profit to those communities which have invested money in building and maintenance of roads on which those wheels must run. The tourist business has become one of the really big industries of the country and reports from various scenic centers in the last few weeks show beyond question that the public is using its cars for sightseeing purposes.

Wealth in quantities is spent where tourists go and such traffic is a spot cash business running into the hundreds of millions of dollars annually. It is increasing in direct proportion to the improvement of roads and highways. This is conclusively shown in the case of California, which laid out a far-sighted plan years ago to attract tourist traffic from other states and hold it.

California Highways
Prior to the San Diego and San Francisco expositions the state laid a great network of concrete boulevards, fifteen feet wide and four inches thick. The state engineers knew this roadbed was not heavy enough to hold future traffic, so they called these roads a "base," planning later to put on a top surfacing. In 1915 the state had completed 575 miles of the heavy surfaced road and today has 3500 miles of permanent concrete highways six to eight inches thick and 20 feet wide in many sections.

As a result there were 300,000 motor tourists in California in 1923, according to the State Automobile association, who spent an average of $10 a day apiece for an average stay of thirty days. That put about $30,000,000 from other states in circulation in California and experts confidently expect this summer will grow to

Under Sequoia's Redwoods

One of the many public camp sites in the High Sierras playgrounds. A Rollin car, fitted with camp equipment from the WESTERN AUTO SUPPLY COMPANY, is shown amid the aged giants of the forest.

The charm of the unusual! The attraction of a vast solitude of natural grandeur set apart by great barriers from the din of civilization makes the Sequoia National park an ideal place to spend a summer vacation.

The recreation possibilities of the Sequoia National park have scarcely been touched, for stored within its vast boundaries are scenic wonders and oddities unsurpassed elsewhere in California. It is noted primarily for its big trees, but the beauties are by no means limited to the trees, for nature was in one of her most capricious moods when she designed the wonders of this playground, and she endowed it with green valleys, ribboned with silver streams, vast chasms, towering mountains, limestone caves, pine forests and emerald lakes—all jumbled together in magnificent confusion.

Its giant trees link us to a time so ancient that ordinary time periods seem nothing when compared to it. Staunchly, in the face of fire and storm, they have stood throughout the ages, recording time by their growth until the years seem nothing, and centuries but incidents. It is difficult for the mind to conceive, as you gaze upon those old giants, that they were standing before the birth of Christ—some, older still, date back thousands of years, even to the building of the pyramids.

2000 Years Old

A section of one of the fallen monarchs has been placed near the checking post in Giant forest. This piece was cut from the tree fifty feet from the base, and the rings that record its growth prove it to be more than 2000 years old, and this was comparatively young when it met its untimely fate. This tree was living before the birth of Christ, and grew on down through the ages until 1917, when it fell, due to the washing away of its roots by a creek on whose banks it stood.

Standing out as the largest and oldest of all living Sequoias is the General Sherman tree, a giant of almost unbelievable size, both in height and diameter. Towering above its neighbors, it has reached the height of 279 feet and has a base circumference of more than 102 feet. A trapper, James Wolverton, discovered this tree in 1879, and he named it in honor of his chief, under whom he had served during the Civil war.

An interesting group in the Giant forest is the Parker grove. The road leads on past this group to Crescent Meadows, a timber-skirted field made radiantly beautiful by a rich carpet of field and mountain flowers. Across the meadow lies a trail that leads to the Tharp log house. This house is a fallen Sequoia, hollowed by fire. Its large room housed John Tharp during his stay in that country. He had it equipped with a fireplace, tables, chairs and such furnishings as he needed. John Muir stayed there for a time with Tharp in 1875.

Vista of Canyon

On the return road from the Tharp log, a road leads off to Moro rock, a giant monolith of intoxicating height, whose top may be reached after a breath-taking climb up a ladder. Here you can look down for thousands of feet into the canyon and view the beautiful panorama of the western divide, its tortuous canyons with glacier-carved precipices and snowy summits, culminating in Mount Whitney.

Throughout the park there has been no attempt to modernize conditions. It is still the "forest primeval," void of all commercial enterprises that are not essential, and that would brand it a recreation resort. One may walk through the woodlands and find them just as the discoverers did years ago.

The most independent way to stay there is to camp out, using your own equipment. At the Giant forest there are now more than 350 public camps and several hundred more are under construction. Superintendent White has chosen excellent locations for his camp sites—some skirt the meadow lands, some are to be found on the banks of a brawling trout stream, some hidden away behind huge granite boulders—all strategically located. These sites extend from Marble Forks, on the west, to Lodge Pole and Wolverton camps, on the east.

A new Rollin, the motorlog car, with camping outfit from the Western Auto Supply company, recently made the trip. From Three Rivers to Giant Forest, the plucky little car made the 17 percent grades and arrived at the park in the heat of the day without boiling—a performance that deserves its meed of praise. The balloon tires and four-wheel brakes proved their points of superiority on the mountain roads. Then, too, with the assistance of Western Auto Supply company, the car was equipped with a complete camp suitable for such a trip. A tent with a sewed-in floor that accommodated two full-sized spring beds, a table that held food, a gas stove upon which biscuits could be baked—in fact, everything needed to make the stay a most pleasant one. All this, combined with courtesies shown by Colonel White and his assistants, made the tour to Sequoia National park one of unalloyed delight.

PRICE CUTS FAIL TO HALT OUTPUT

Oil and Gasoline Stocks In Storage Increasing In Spite of Slash

tion will be sufficient even in the height of the touring season, to make serious inroads into these reserves. Clines and anticlines, deeper oil sands and shales, are being pursued relentlessly by the prospectors of the oil industry and new producing wells are being opened up despite the fact that the large companies have reduced new drilling operations to a minimum.

Prices and Profits

Prices still are averaging somewhat higher than at this time last summer and profits of some companies undoubtedly are greater. Short tenure of leases is the difficulty the industry has to contend with at present. When holders of leases have only a limited time in which to draw the black gold from beneath the surface, they are unwilling to halt whether the market for oil is flooded or not. Adjoining property owners are, therefore, compelled to continue production in self-defense in order to prevent the oil lakes beneath their ground from being drained through another hole.

Extensions of the Torrance and Dominguez fields in Southern California and of the Buena Vista field in Kern county, have served to check the steady decline in California production which has been in progress since last October when the flow from the west was affecting every market in the country.

Wildcaters Busy

July production figures for California just available showed an output of 19,274,755 barrels, a gain of nearly half a million barrels over June. Estimates so far this month indicate that the increase over the June figures has grown rather than diminished. Also the larger companies are engaged in vigorous wild-cat operations, the most active of which are centered in the Kettleman Hills district where deep test wells are being sunk.

Consumption of the California product has fallen far below production, which oil men in other sections regard as a dragging weight on the oil price kite. Stocks of crude oil on hand in California at the beginning of this month totaled 101,462,225 barrels or about 10,000,000 above the surplus available the first of this year. This is attributed in the west to less use of fuel oil by railroads and the smaller number of tourists which visited California early this summer.

Additional cuts in the prices of crude oil have been anticipated in the Mid-continent field. But strange as it may seem, this prediction has served to strengthen the tons of gasoline and kerosene markets in Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. In fact, material increases in price are anticipated by those who allege that jobbers have held off in expectation of a further cut in trade and have been forced by increased demand to purchase hurriedly for temporary requirements. Refiners, however, are most conservative in their ideas over the long-distance situation covering the remainder of the year.

Get More Gasoline

Kenneth R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil of California, says cuts in Mid-continent and Gulf crudes will have little effect on the California situation since prices for California crude and finished products are so low that they are not competitive with the Middle West oils and still afford sufficient margin to allow California to ship to the Atlantic seaboard. Such shipments are running above 100,000 barrels a day.

Improved methods have resulted in a greater yield of gasoline to refiners from the same amount of crude oil and active methods now are being taken through consolidations and intensive marketing methods to increase consumption both of gasoline and fuel oils.

MAXWELL Initiates a New Order Says Walter P. Chrysler

The public in general probably has no adequate realization of the great advances which have recently been made in motor car engineering.

It is a fact that the good Maxwell, together with the Chrysler Six, has literally accomplished a revolution in motor car results.

If you have not familiarized yourself with the good Maxwell since Chrysler engineers began their work with it, you cannot begin to appreciate what it means to thorough satisfaction and economical, care-free motoring.

Its engineering design and its fine materials are directly responsible for the statements of owners that the good Maxwell now costs less to maintain than any car they have ever known. When you ride in the good Maxwell, be prepared for a quietness and a smoothness that you probably never expected from a four-cylinder engine. One reason why you don't feel any trace of vibration when you ride behind the Maxwell motor, is the fact that the reciprocating parts of the engine are balanced to the fraction of an ounce.

Another reason is a floating platform spring mounting under the front end of the motor—a wonderfully effective device which is exclusive to Maxwell.

Owners will tell you that gasoline economy generally averages 24 miles to the gallon.

With this economy is coupled performance that would be gratifying in a car of far greater cost and power.

You accelerate from 5 to 25 miles an hour in eight seconds, when you drive a good Maxwell.

Its engine, with displacement only a fraction over 185 cubic inches, develops power that will take you anywhere a car can go—and some places where some cars cannot go.

The car is a revelation in ease of steering. Its ease of riding is equally remarkable.

The spring suspension is one reason for this. The noticeable absence of motor vibration is another.

If you really want to know how far four-cylinder engineering practice has advanced—take a ride in the good Maxwell. Nothing else can give you a full realization of the new order of things which the good Maxwell has initiated.

GOOD ROADS ARE VALUABLE ASSET

Motorists Spend Their Money
Freely In Towns on Smooth Highways

over $100,000,000 for the current year.

Washington Profits

The state of Washington, with over 1000 miles of concrete roads, is coming in for its full share of such traffic. The Seattle Chamber of Commerce states that in one month this summer 150,000 cars from thirty states, Alaska, Hawaii and other places, entered Blaine alone on the way to British Columbia. In 1923 some 63,000 cars entered British Columbia from the United States and Dominion officials place the value of tourist traffic to Canada at $136,000,000 annually.

In Colorado there were 643,015 campers cared for in the auto camps of that state last year and with favorable weather that total will undoubtedly be surpassed this season. Iowa has over 200 tourist camps scattered within its borders, each attracting its quota of tourists. So valuable has tourist travel become to Wisconsin that some sections of highway are patrolled by Boy Scouts who act as guides to the travelers.

The 2500 miles of concrete highways in New York have been the drawing card which has pulled motorists from every section of the land. And it is estimated that more than half a million tourists will pass through the Finger Lakes region alone this year, spending an average of $10 a day each. Engineers say this is a direct return from the $15,000,000 hard surface roads program of the state, in securing which the thirty chambers of commerce in the Finger Lakes association were prominent.

Federal Funds

Even the government is showing a direct profit from its roads in national parks, although not benefitting from the ordinary day to day expenses. Since 1916, $1,443,600 in federal funds have been used on roads in the parks and in the same period $1,511,233 has been collected in fees from automobiles using these roads.

It is expected between 300,000 and 400,000 automobiles will visit the parks this year and an appropriation of $7,500,000 has been made for road construction within their limits in the next three years.

TRUCKS INJURING MOUNTAIN ROADS

Route to Mono Lake Deeply
Rutted by Big Loads,
Declares Smith

Bad roads that have been cut into deep ruts by trucks that are hauling material to a dam that is being constructed in the neighborhood of Mono lake are reported by Harry W. Smith, general manager of C. L. Smith, Chevrolet distributors, Orange and Colorado streets, who, with Mrs. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mertens of Los Angeles, have just returned from an eight days' trip to the Mammoth Lake region. From here to Mammoth the roads are good, but after that they are badly cut up.

A point of interest they visited was the Mt. Whitney fish hatchery at Independence, something that Mr. Smith urges everyone, whether sportsman or not, to visit. During their trip the party reached a point overlooking the San Joaquin river, at an elevation of 9800 feet, while the road along which they skirted Mt. Whitney offered them a wonderful view of the giant of American mountains.

The fishing was not as good as they had anticipated, but they made up for their disappointment in scenery that amply repaid them for their long trip.

FIND PUNCTURES ON EASTERN RUN

Guthrie's Studebaker Sedan
Covers Long Journey
In Fine Shape

The merits of the Studebaker Big Six sedan are being tested to the limit on the trip that Charles B. Guthrie, realtor, with Mrs. Guthrie and their daughter, Miss Catherine, are making to the eastern seaboard in their car. Starting up the coast, the party motored to Banff in the Canadian Rockies, to Yellowstone park, through Montana, Wyoming, South Dakota, on to Chicago, where they took ship on the lake trip to Buffalo, and from thence down to Portland, Maine, where they are due September 1. The principal trouble, Mr. Guthrie writes S. C. Packer, local Studebaker dealer, 245 South Brand boulevard, has been punctures, of which they seem to have had more than their share, but outside of that the Big Six sedan has answered every call that has been made on it.

Mr. Guthrie will spend several weeks on the Atlantic coast before starting home again, and it is expected that he will arrive here in time to attend the convention of the California Real Estate association at Pasadena in October.

HUPP AGENT HAS NEW LOT COMING

White Sells All Models to Local Buyers; More Cars
On Way Here

"Business, this month has been unusually good, especially during the past ten days, and I look for a big volume of sales all through the fall," says H. V. White, 111 West Harvard street, local representative of H. W. Swanson, Hupmobile and Jordan dealer, in reporting that he had sold out all his Hupmobiles and was looking for another shipment by tomorrow to enable him to satisfy the demands of some of the customers on his waiting list.

Included in the coming shipment will be two sport models and a club sedan, in the Hupp line, and he also expects a Jordan. The cars are all finished in Duco finish, that resists the elements and the other things that wear the surface off the average car, and they also are equipped with balloon tires as standard equipment. "The Glendale territory," says Mr. White, "is living excellently up to its advance notices, and the manner in which local motorists are buying Hupmobiles is evidence that they demand cars with a reputation for worth and reliability."

BUICK LINE WINS FAVOR OF OWNERS

Sound Principles Contribute
To Car's Leadership,
Declares Galvin

With the new models of the Buick line in the hands of owners all over the state and with the enthusiasm over the 1925 line growing daily, the members of the Buick organization in Southern California are jubilant and are unanimous in predicting a record business during the fall months.

With the publication of official figures on the total registration, the Buick dealers are convinced that their optimism is well founded, according to Ray L. Galvin, sales manager for Tanner & Hall, Ltd., 622 South Brand boulevard, for these statistics show that for cars listed at the factories in excess of $650 the Buick leads the field, the only cars ahead of Buick in total registrations being Ford and Chevrolet.

"Buick's leadership," says Mr. Galvin, "comes from its consistency in building an outstanding line of automobiles year after year. The fundamental engineering principles of Buick have not been changed in many years, and while the cars have been steadily refined and kept up to the minute in every essential, the sound principles that marked the line always have been adhered to."

BIG DEMAND FOR PAIGES, JEWETTS

Increase In Sales for July
Shown In Statements
From Factory

Figures covering the July business of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company show that the dealer sales increased 22 per cent, according to an announcement by the president of the concern, Harry M. Jewett, the actual number of cars sold during the month, in both Paiges and Jewetts, being 3930.

This record, according to F. S. Paden, sales manager of Ralph B. Bliss, 219 West Colorado street, local dealer, is not surprising, in view of the steadily increasing demand for the two lines, especially in the new Paige models, which are making a splendid impression on the motoring public.

"The first six months of this year," says Mr. Paden, "were big months for us, and the prospects for the second half of the year are even better, as people come to realize more and more the sturdy strength that is built into both Paige and Jewett, as well as seeing for themselves at first sight the beauty and refinements embodied in both lines."

LIGHTER PISTONS AID FORD POWER

Reduction In Weight Cuts
Down Vibration, Raises
Car's Efficiency

Among the recent improvements incorporated in the late model Fords are the new light weight pistons which are four ounces lighter than the older types and that are said to make the running of the Fords smoother by cutting down the weight the engine has to handle and in eliminating vibration. Another feature of the new pistons, according to E. J. Flaherty, of the Jesse E. Smith company, Ford dealers, 115 West Colorado street, is the fact that they permit easier starting, as well as increasing the power of the engine. The new light-weight pistons can now be had for replacement purposes, and Ford

TELLS METHOD OF ENAMELING CARS

Firm Reports Steady Growth
In August Business;
Beat Last Year

The Glendale Enameling works, 232 South Orange street, in the rear, have enjoyed an unusually good month in August in a business way. It has not been a spurt owners can adapt these pistons to their cars when having them overhauled.

Another new feature is the spring on the timer, which is much stronger than formerly and that insures a more even pressure and a more positive contact, thus eliminating the uneven wear on the flange and preventing corrugations that tend to lessen the efficiency of the timer.

business, according to S. E. Newton, one of the partners, but a good, substantial, steady business from day to day and an increase over a year ago.

This firm is composed of S. E. Newton and D. A. Dunham, who both reside in Glendale. They have been in their present location four months, but have been in the enameling business for over two years in this city.

The average motorist hardly gives a thought to all the work which is entailed when he wishes a fender or other metal part of his car enameled. First the old paint has to be carefully removed with acid processes, the metal part is then sprayed and placed in a specially constructed room, where it is baked in a 375 degree heat. The part is rubbed down carefully after each coat of enamel. There usually are from four to five coats of enamel put on and the firm uses nothing but the highest grades of enamel.

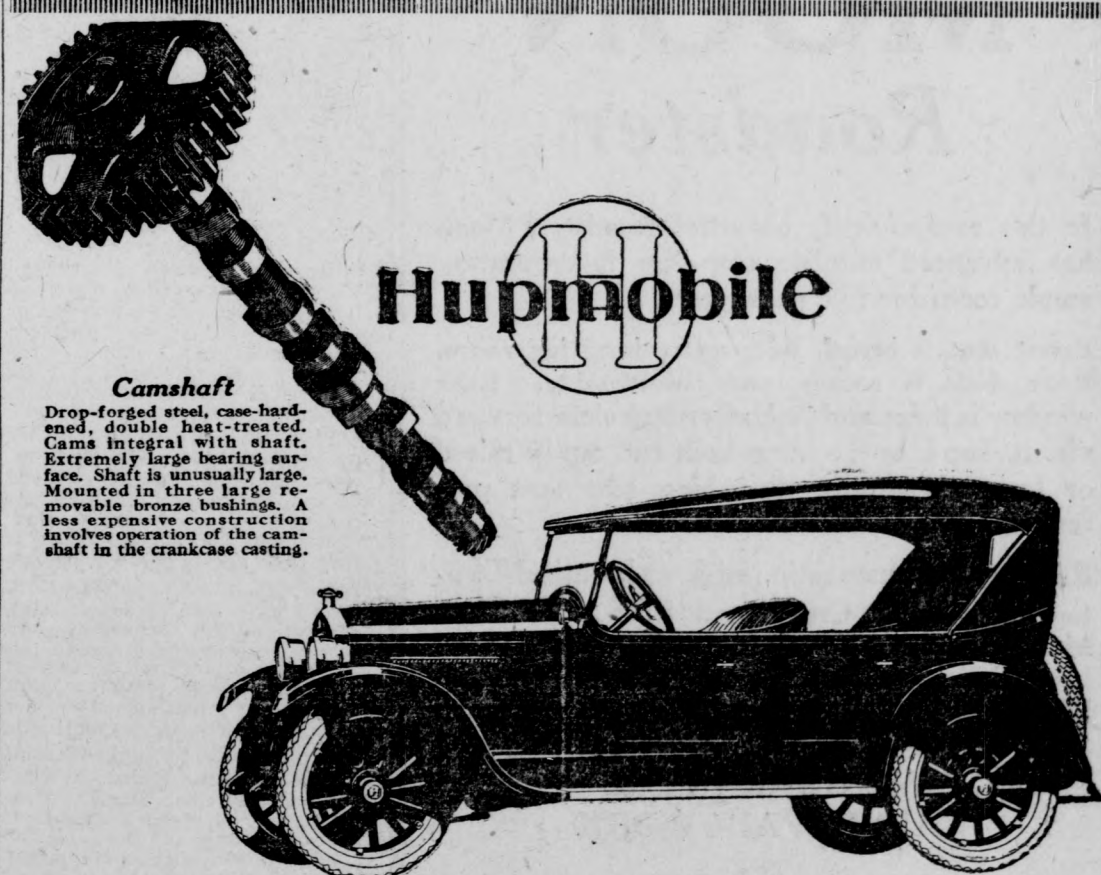

To increase the safety of flag-rod workers, metal signal flags that clamp to rails and on which lanterns can be hung at night, have been designed.

New Tops, Trimmings Installed on Autos

New auto tops and trimmings are getting quite popular with the auto owning public of Glendale of late, says Carl E. Johnson, who operates an auto top and trim shop at 122 West Colorado boulevard. Many folks are trying to make their old cars do for the fall and are driving them in to have a new top or side curtains made.

The cost is usually reasonable for this sort of work and many months of real service can be had from jobs of this nature. Mr. Johnson makes auto cushions and does all kinds of upholstery and repair work.

Eels, like human beings, frequently take long jaunts away from home. Seventeen years of study has developed the fact that in the waters of the West Indies the eels come from as far as several hundreds of miles away to breed, and, after breeding, three years elapse before they return to their home waters.

MOON UNITS ARE STANDARD, CLAIM

Specialists In Automotive
World Contribute to Car's Standing

"One reason why the Moon car is coming to the front as rapidly as it has been doing recently is because of the fact that its builders include in its construction only such units as have been proven by the leading engineers of the automotive industry," says J. W. Frazier, sales manager of the Penn Motor company, 510 West Broadway, Moon dealers.

"Every unit that goes into the Moon cars," he declares, "has been developed by specialists in their own particular lines, and every unit is standard. I defy any mechanical engineer, no matter how expert he may be, to condemn any unit used by Moon builders in their cars. Another point to be noted is that the distinctive appearance of the Moon, in its class, is equally distinctive as that of the highest-priced cars in their class, and the policy of adhering to one type of body prevents the rapid depreciation that happens in so many cases where body lines are changed each season."

The Penn Motor company is stressing the two-door Moon sedan, as the season for closed cars approaches, putting this model in the hands of buyers completely equipped. The only extra that has to be bought is the license plates. Another car that the agency is proud of is the roadster, with room for five passengers in its front and rumble seats. Both these cars have balloon tires, hydraulic four-wheel brakes and Duco finish as standard equipment, as well as Pullman bodies.

SELLS TIRES AT REDUCED PRICES

Silver Lake Service Station Offers Mason Line at Ten-Day Bargain

Frank Martin, proprietor of the Silver Lake Service station, 2522 Glendale boulevard, Edendale, says that he was correctly informed that advanced prices on auto tires were scheduled to go into effect some time next week. Especially is this true of the famous Mason Cord tires and all the various tires that are manufactured by the Mason people.

Mr. Martin for the past few days has instituted new low prices on his large stock of Mason tires and they are priced real low to give the motorist the opportunity of saving money before the increase. The new low prices will be in effect ten days longer, says Mr. Martin.

The Silver Lake Service station handles Blue Diamond gasoline and Associated oils.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—With transactions reduced to the lowest volume for any full session this month to date, and the market governed entirely by professional traders, prices of speculative stocks drifted aimlessly around today and fluctuations were extremely narrow. The market had every aspect of the typical mid-summer pre-holiday session, with price changes representing nothing more than the matching of wits of professionals and with a slightly better tone in the motor and industrial shares, while the friendless oil stocks again showed little change. Pool and stocks seemed to be better protected and it required only a small volume of trades in such stocks as Colorado Fuel & Iron, Davison Chemical, Atlantic Refining, Cast Iron Pipe, etc., to send prices up a point or two near the opening, which modest gains were generally retained.

Impressive buying was seen at times in the equipment and motor stocks. Equipments have been in position to reflect the receipt of some fine orders for railroad supplies, including engines, box cars and flat cars. A number of the companies are expected to benefit from the placing of an order amounting to $25,000,000 by the Pennsylvania railroad.

Maxwell "A" stock led the rally in motors with a rise to a new high of 59; Chandler gained nearly a point at 41 1-2; Mack Truck sold a point higher at 99, and Studebaker at 39 was only fractionally below its best previous performance for the year.

Foreign news was not inspiring from the stock market standpoint.

As a rule the railroad and industrial stocks gave a good account of themselves today, strengthened by the firm tone of their market leaders. Rutland preferred, on a small volume of transactions, ran up four points to a new high at 54 1-2; New York Central was active around the best prices of the year to date. Katy failed to follow up the rise of yesterday, despite the news that banking interests were withholding a large block of the stock from the market. Chesapeake & Ohio sold in good volume above 85.

FAT AND FRECKLES
Miss E.—You say you are sixty-four inches tall, 15 years of age, and weigh 128 pounds. Everyone says you are too fat. You have brown spots on your face and neck.

If everyone says you are too fat, I suppose it is true, don't you? According to the average tables, for your height and age you are only nine pounds overweight. While we usually consider that it is wise for children to be a little over the average weight, still, if you look so much overweight, it is apparently too much for you. You had better begin to cut down your candy and dessert and other sweets and be careful not to eat too much bread and butter.

The articles I ran on the Undernourished and Overnourished Child, among other articles, are now compiled in book form. We have a pamphlet on reducing, which you may have by sending 4 cents in stamps with your self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Aren't the brown spots on your face freckles? There isn't much that can be done for freckles, except to keep out of direct exposure to the sun's rays. Veils, parasols, large shade hats, and such ordinary precautions should be taken. If they are permanent (don't disappear in the winter time) they can be removed only by peeling the skin. But this should be done by a skin specialist, not in a beauty parlor.

SEE YOUR PHYSICIAN
Miss D.—You should find out the cause of the trouble you speak of. It shows some chronic inflammatory condition, which should be corrected. A temporary relief can be obtained by very hot douches of three or four quarts of hot water, as hot as you can stand, with a tablespoonful of boric acid crystals to the quart of water. It is the heat, however, that is beneficial.

All measures for building up your general health—exercises, balanced diet, fresh air night and day, and so forth, should be a part of your regime, of course. Perhaps there is some internal irritation. This also will be helped by the hot douches. Keep your urine as non-irritating as possible by drinking plenty of water and milk and eating liberally of green vegetables and fruit. Cut down

HOW TO MAKE SALT-RISING BREAD
TOMORROW'S MENU
Breakfast: Berries, Cereal, Coffee, Fried Ham, Pop-overs.
Luncheon: Scrambled Eggs, Wholewheat Bread.
Dinner: Iced Cocoa, Lettuce Jelly, Corned Beef, Potatoes, Tomato Salad, Peach Shortcake, Coffee.

"June Bride" has written to ask for directions for Salt-Rising Bread. Here they are: Scald four tablespoons of white cornmeal with enough sweet milk to make a thick batter; set this batter in a warm place to rise overnight. To this sponge add one pint of tepid water, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of sugar and then stir in enough ordinary flour to make a batter as thick as cake batter (that is, an ordinary sponge). Set this sponge to rise by placing it in a bowl and then standing the bowl in warm water (keep the water about the same temperature by occasionally adding fresh hot water and taking out some of the cooled water). It should be raised light in an hour or two. Keeping it near a stove helps considerably. When light, add more flour so as to make a stiff dough of it, turn it out onto a slightly floured bread board and knead about ten minutes, then shape it at once into two loaves. Place these loaves in warm temperature (near a stove) covered, till double in bulk. Then slip the bread pans into a moderate oven to bake for about 45 minutes, like any bread. (Note: I regret that I have not more exact measurements for this bread. This recipe was kindly given me by an old housekeeper who "cooked by ear," as she jokingly told me. If any Reader Friend has a better recipe for Salt-Rising Bread, I hope she will send it to me to publish here for "June Bride," or for any other reader who might like to try this unusual but delicious kind of bread.)

In turn charged that it was "plain perjury designed to intimidate the court in favor of the death penalty." Apparently, from this rebuke to Crowe this morning, Caverly agreed with him in part.

Defendants Are Amused
"Dicky" and "Babe" were vastly amused by the court's rebuke to the state's attorney. They keenly enjoyed Crowe's discomfiture.

Within ten minutes after court adjourned, "Dicky" Loeb was singing lustily in his cell, "Oh, Go Way and Let Me Eat," as he attacked a heaping plate full of food. His song was directed to all those who sought to question him concerning the outcome of the trial. He was in good spirits, for the court had ruled in his favor more than it did his companion.

Leopold was somewhat more subdued. He said he was glad the trial was over, although "It did help break the monotony of jail life."

Leopold has always taken a keener, more student-like interest in the proceedings than has "Dicky."

CHAPTER XXXVII.

"Oh, years—twenty years! I was a child," Hilary answered, breathlessly, while Dora sat up straight, with Craig's arm still about her, and Craig turned to his mother a surprised and amused look. It was not like her to make such a remark in jest; indeed, there was an extremely determined expression now upon her florid face and about the lines of her rather harsh mouth.

"Come along, Hilary," she said. "This is Saturday, and I sail Tuesday—"

"Oh, Mrs. Spaulding!" Hilary gasped, "you're too kind, but I really think—of course, I'd love it!"

"Take my advice and go," Craig said. "You don't know my mother! You'll have the time of your life!"

"Oh, but honestly—but I never dreamed—"

"—stammered Hilary. "Why, I—But Paris!" Her accent on the last word made them all laugh; but Dora's laugh was over a sudden little jealous pang. Of course, she and Craig had had actual months in France; of course it was coming to dear old Hilary—but—but—but—

And Dora really suffered in the next three crowded days when they all went down to Mount Holy in the car to see John Spaulding, and when Hilary laughingly promised him to be back before the first cherry was ripe, and when they rushed through shops buying pleasant-smelling leather things, and a woolly plaid, and the big soft warm tan coat that was Mrs. Spaulding's gift to her eldest.

To see them off, in the delicious bustle of sailing, to peep into the wide, airy cabin with its two mahogany beds, to push about the narrow, clean white iron passages with other furred and murmuring leave-takers was bad enough. But it was really hard for Dora to go off the steamer, and to stand on the cold pier, while the rail above her, and Hilary's bright face under a fur cap, and framed in furs and violets, faded from view. Craig's mother, red-faced, firmly wrapped, and looking unusually stern in an extremely unbecoming traveling hat, looked down beside Hilary, and on the other side of her sister appeared the pleasant, rosy, extraordinarily clean face of Cecil Atherton. The huge blow for lunch now, Dora thought, and they would go downstairs and begin to identify faces and find their places! And then they would be tucked up until tea-time, on deck, glancing at each other's novels, and looking at the rise and fall of the roughening sea, and talking.

She had said to Craig, when Cecil came up to them on the deck, that she was delighted that he happened to be returning to England on this boat. Hilary did not especially like him, but Craig's mother did, and he would be useful to them in all sorts of ways. She had lost her fancy for Cecil with the humiliating event of the miniature it had all seemed flat and silly under Hilary's and Craig's scornful eyes.

But it was dull and dispiriting to go meekly back home to a late luncheon this morning, and to think of the thrills that life might have, and didn't have. Dora dozed after lunch, and had a good hour of hard practice with her violin. She came down to the car at five minutes before four, with the brown leather case under her arm.

"To Herr von Mandescheid's, please, Bacon," she said to the chauffeur, "and wait for me there; I'm having a lesson!"

Her pretty face was sober, as she looked out of the car at the jumbled traffic of the snowy streets. What was Hilary doing now? What fun she would have in Paris, with her French, and her passion for little adventures! Here in New York there was nothing to do; no new thrilling singer at the opera; no new plays that tempted, no new people.

She opened the studio door with her usual bold and ungrammatical greeting for old Von Mandescheid, in his own tongue. The old man was at the piano; there was another man in the room who pulled his long lean form out of a velvet chair and flung back his mane of heavy, long black hair.

Kronski had come back! Hilary, with only a delighted woman of sixty for her companion, had exactly seventeen enchanting days in Paris, three in Switzerland, and fourteen in Spain. The new laced shoes with rubber soles needed mending, and the new brown coat needed a new pocket and a trip to the cleaner by the time that, exhausted with pleasure, she came smiling aboard the Olympic at Cherbourg in the romantic twilight of a mellow moonlit evening for the trip home. Hilary had tramped, poked, investigated everywhere; she felt herself insatiable for travel.

"It must be my mother's French blood," she said, animat-

There was a stampede last night to see "The Stampede," the big western play now being presented, starting at 8 o'clock each night, at the tent theatre of Murphy's Comedians on Central avenue and Stocker street, Casa Verdugo.

The people of Glendale and surrounding points, hearing how the case against J. A. Menard, manager of these players, had been dismissed yesterday afternoon at the request of the deputy district attorney, himself, flocked to the tent last night to congratulate the company and show by their presence that they are with them.

They found that "The Stampede" is one of the strongest, finest, cleanest plays they had ever seen and enjoyed it hugely from first to last, chuckling over its hundred laughs and enjoying the thrill of their lives in the tense places. Mr. Menard advises those who wish to see the play to come early tonight as there will be a big crowd.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE JELLY BEANS

Uncle Wiggily felt somebody pulling at his coat-tails one morning as he hopped along the seashore beach. At first he thought it might be the Skillery Scallery Alligator, but quickly turning around, the rabbit gentleman saw that it was Jillie Longtail, the little mouse girl.

"Oh, hello, Jillie; what is it?" asked Uncle Wiggily, for he saw that the little mouse child wanted to speak to him—and she had tears in her eyes.

"Uncle Wiggily, did you—now—did you lose a penny?" asked Jillie, sort of swallowing her words and choking like.

"Did I lose a penny?" repeated the rabbit gentleman. "Why, no, Jillie, I didn't," and he put his paw in his pocket to make sure.

"Well, I—I—now—I did!" gulped Jillie. "O, dear, I lost my penny! The sand and I can't find the penny!" sobbed the little mouse child, for, of course, she could find plenty of sand—the beach was covered with it.

"Lost your penny, did you?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "That's too bad! What were you going to buy with it, Jillie?"

"Jelly beans," answered Jillie. "I was going to buy them with my penny, but now—boo hoo—now I can't," and Jillie burst into tears.

"Oh, yes, you can!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Here's one of my pennies for you—I didn't lose mine," and he gave Jillie a whole, big, round copper penny, as bright as a sunbeam.

"Oh, thank you, Uncle Wiggily! Thank you!" squeaked Jillie, drying her tears, and away she ran to the candy store, where she bought a bag filled with jelly beans. These were sort of hard gum drops of different colors, filled with jelly, flavored with rose, cinnamon, peach, strawberry and the like of that.

"Have some, Uncle Wiggily!" offered Jillie politely, as she held the open bag toward the rabbit gentleman. But no sooner had he looked inside than he cried:

"Why, the candy store fooled you, Jillie! These are only beach pebbles—brown, white, red and speckled. You can't eat those!"

"Oh, yes, I can!" laughed Jillie, putting one in her mouth. "The jelly beans look just like pebbles off the beach, but really, they aren't," Uncle Wiggily said. "You opened one of the jelly beans. Then she picked up some brown, red, white and speckled pebbles off the sand. The pebbles looked just like the jelly beans, but, of course, they weren't."

Uncle Wiggily and Jillie sat on the sand, eating the jelly beans from the bag when all of a sudden a bad old Sea Lion popped his head up out of the ocean. In a loud voice he roared:

"Give me something good to eat or I'll nibble your ears!"

"Quee! Quee!" squeaked Jillie in fright. But brave Uncle Wiggily quickly scooped up some beach pebbles that looked exactly like the candies in the bag and the rabbit cried:

"Have some jelly beans!"

"Yes, I'll have jelly beans, and it's a good thing you gave me some or I'd have nibbled your ears!" roared the Sea Lion. He opened his big mouth. Uncle Wiggily tossed into it the hard pebbles. "Crunchie, crunchie!" went the Sea Lion, as he bit savagely on them and when he found he wasn't eating candy but was chewing on pebbles—well, you can imagine how queer he felt.

"Wuff! Wuff!" he roared, but Uncle Wiggily and Jillie only laughed at him as he sank back in the ocean, every tooth in his head aching.

"You fooled him good and proper!" squeaked the little mouse girl. And the rabbit did, didn't he?"

And if the fish line doesn't tie the saw horse to the clothes post so it can't play tag with the looking glass, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the rocking chair.

Valley Real Estate Shows Upward Trend

TUJUNGA, Aug. 28.—Reports made by members of the Tujunga Valley Realty board at the last meeting indicate that real estate activities in the valley are on the upward trend, following a slight slump. The speculative tendency has been replaced by the more substantial growth in the number of home owners, the dealers believe. Members of the Tujunga board pledged themselves to concentrate on the home development phase of the business as the most constructive and beneficial to the community. The board went on record as in favor of establishing a public auto camp at Sunland, as proposed by Mr. Herron, Michigan avenue and Sherman way.

dolph Henry, treasurer. Lew Head, candidate for Congress, will be the principal speaker. At the last meeting it was voted to hold a county rally of La Follette clubs at Monte Vista park in the near future.

SPECIAL ACTS AT 4-DAY FESTIVAL

Tujunga Legion Post
For Moon Garden

TUJUNGA, Aug. 28.—With the program and all arrangements completed for holding the fourth annual Moon Festival of the Tujungans, the committee of Post 250, American Legion, needs only the arrival of Friday to launch the four-day celebration. In addition to the items listed on the official program there will be industrial and mercantile exhibit sections on the midway grounds where products of the Verdugo Hills and adjacent territory will be on display. The Tujunga Woman's club will operate a food and refreshment booth and the Boy Scouts will operate a hot dog stand. All of the names of persons who will appear in entertaining features are well known in their particular lines. Annette Kellerman is perhaps the most famous of them all for her achievements in the field of beauty culture and swimming, achieving a flawless figure after being crippled in childhood. ## BIG CONTRACT TO EAGLE ROCK FIRM

Woodwork for Desks of L. A.
Schools to Be Fitted
To Castings

EAGLE ROCK, Aug. 28.—The contract to furnish all the woodwork for 16,400 desks for the Los Angeles city schools has been awarded to the Eagle Rock Screen Manufacturing company, by the Kingman Manufacturing company of Los Angeles, which has a contract with the Board of Education to furnish these desks complete.

Heretofore the desks used by the city schools have been manufactured in the east, and the board of education in awarding the contract to local manufacturers have carried out their policy of fostering home industry, and at the same time saving the taxpayers about $18,000 as the desks are being furnished at a large saving over the price charged by the eastern manufacturers.

The castings are to be made by the Kingman Manufacturing Co., under the direct supervision of Victor C. Kingman and Manford Minick, while the woodwork is to be furnished by the Eagle Rock Screen Manufacturing company. It is said 180,000 feet of lumber will be required to make the desks and Wisconsin birch and Arkansas gum will be used. The company is composed of S. M. McMackin, J. A. Slater, O. N. Back from Vacation
Walter S. Gates, successful candidate for judge of the Superior court of Los Angeles county, to fill the unexpired term of Lewis W. Myers, and who resides with his family at 5239 North Highland View avenue, Eagle Rock, reports a pleasant trip last week to the Antelope valley and the San Fernando valley where he met many old friends and made many new ones.

Mr. Gates says that much interest was shown in the race for district attorney in the places visited by him. He addressed many gatherings throughout the county.

Mr. Gates was urged to seek the position of judge of the Superior court by many prominent attorneys, business men, citizens and civic organizations.

Publisher Speaks at Rotary Club Lunch

Jack Dionne, publisher of The California Lumber Merchant, a member of the Los Angeles Rotary club, spoke before the Glendale Rotary club at this noon's luncheon held at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, declaring that the progressive merchandising of lumber is translating logs into homes.

Mr. Dionne flavored his remarks with a rapid-fire barrage of stories that kept the local Rotarians and their guests in an uproar. "I believe in self-made men," he said, "and I believe Rotary names them."

The following Rotarians were guests at today's luncheon: Jack Dionne, Emile Pozzi, L. G. Roberts, G. E. Golding, Phil Hart, F. E. Beavis, R. B. Hanna, Rudy Gunzel, all of the Los Angeles club; and J. J. King and H. C. Dunning, Burbank; Clarence McGee, Glendale, Ariz.; F. D. Sawyer, Newkirk, Okla.; J. H. Kindel and Frank West, Pasadena; and E. L. Renninger, Redlands.

Immediately after the luncheon, a number of the local Rotarians left for Brookside park, Pasadena, where they are holding a picnic this afternoon.

FRANCE WILL RETRENCH

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The cabinet today instructed Premier Herriot and Minister of Finance Clemenceau to prepare a rigid program of national economy so that the budget could be reduced.
